CARL G. MILLER, Editorial and Bürhess

A vision is not so far away A Dream; its truth ... its power lies Just ahead. We seniors now, In dedication, raise our eyes To a wonder; to a cloud Of friendly faces in new halls To a great green campus, nearby field An enduring spirit; gallant walls Sturdily standing in the light Of the sun, in every way To glorify its magnitude A vision not so far away
We graduates of 1946
For its. significance neér grows dark Do, with this annual, hail you The newinspining Lewis and Clark

W. W. TAYLOR, Vice-Principal

Springing up around us everywhere in the Post War Period are problems that seem to be beyond solution. For some, the picture of 1946 is very dark.

As of old, the bright spots in this panorama of confusion are the boys and girls now in school - youth of today; leaders of tomorrow - and the men and women of our armed forces that have the full realization of the worth of America and her ideals.

If we, students and faculty here at Lewis and Clark, will keep this school a place where the heritage of our world civilization is passed on, where we have an opportunity to learn to live together harmoniously, where we learn to approach all problems scientifically rather than on an emotional basis, where we have the best interests of our fellow-man at heart then America can count on us and millions of others to preserve the place of leadership for America.
A. L. Parker.

Lewis and Clark high school has no campus scenes to speak of but, as shown by these pictures taken from third story windows, the school has many interesting views of the city.

Top picture shows a humorous scene from the colorful operetta "Chonita" put on last fall by the Music department for the entertainment of the student body. Left to right are Juanita Armand, Louise Goldstein, Gordon Winston, Sam Riggs (being picked up), Ray Rosenau, and Ramona Richards. Bottom: C. D. Babcock, left and C. Oliver Fuller, with baton, practice with the orchestra preceding the operetta as several members of the chorus look on.

Lewis and Clark Band and Ti -Girls add color to the parade given to celebrate the state convention of the American Legion, held in Spokane on October 4.

The freshman basehall squad, coached by Gerald Meckelson, had only a fair season. Rainy weather interfered with practice and the team won only one game out of four. Rain also caused the cancellation of two games so no decision was made as to which school had the best team.
Rogers defeated the Kittens in two games on May 1 and May 18, 50 and 12-8. The frosh team won the game of May 18 with Central Valley, 8-7, and tied with Gonzaga, 3-3, on May 3. Team memhers are: First row: Bob Oisen, John Kearney, Bill Boyles, Gordon Simanto, Second row: Wayne Chandler, Dick Oakley, Ray Renz, George Berthiaume, Fred Johnson (manager), Gerald Meckelson. Third row: Claude Nordhill, Gene Senna, Larry Proelss, Ed Wolfe, Bob Welles.

Tiger Mainstays-1945-1946

Cecil True, only returning letterman from last year's squad, hit his share of shots during the season to pace high among the leading scorers of the league. To start a varsity game when only a freshman shows the ablity of Bill Mather, who was a great aid to the Bengal squad. Claude "Lefty" Nordhill did his share of the work to help the Tigers through the tough ten-game schedule of this season.

The Tigers Close In

Coming in to play the rehound for the Tigers in a hot battle aganst North Central are: Lel)ue (hehind NC player No. 20), Rofler No. 3, Mather No. 6. North Central men are No. 20, Bemett; No. 29, Mox; No. 25, Warl.

Frosh Basketball

With three wins and three losses, the L.C. "Kittens" landed in a tte for second place with Gonzaga.
First row: Herb Brown, Bob Buck, Hartley Krueger, Dick Ager, Kim Jack. Second row: Phil Wang, Bob Fitzsimmons, Lirry Proelss, Roy Donder, Bill Wakefield, Don Nerras.

Tiger Mainstays-1945-1946

Playing his third year of varsity ball this year, Dick King, ballhawking forward, was one of the mainstays of the Bengal attack. Sophomore Bud Roffler played fast, dependable ball throughout the season to run high among the Tigers' leading scorers. Rich LeDac provided the Tiger power on the backboards as well as doing his share of point making.

Going Up! ! !

Three Coaches

Miss Ann Norvell, head of grrls* physical education, and adviser of Ti-Girls, Elra "Syuinty" Hunter, director of hoys" athletics and physical education and well known basketball coach. Miss Carol Gleason, assistant girls P.E. director and girls' golf coach.

A Squad Basketball

After winning the preseason West Valley Invitational tourney, the Tiger maple court squad, largely because of their lack of size and inexperience, wound up the close six-team league competition in third place, behind the frist place the of West Valley and Gonzaga.
First row: Cecil True, Rich LeDue, Claude Nordhill, Bud Roffer, Dick King. Second row: Tom Marineau, Virgil Kuhn, Jim Doulson, Bill Mather, Harold Perry, Edsol Sneva, Tom Anderson.

Get That Ball!:!

[^10]Cummins, Louderback, Bennett

Al Cummins (left), one of the strongest men on the line, was given a tackle position on the All-City second team. Very few opponents of the Tigers could dig their way through his spot on the line.
"Skip" Louderback (center) has been L.C.'s football coach for the last four years. If the Tigers haven't brought forth a championship team, it isn't because "Skip" hasn't done his utmost to produce one.
Bud Bennett (right), smallest member of the starting lineup, really plays a dependable, hardffightung style of football.
This red-harred "fireball" has well confirmed the adage, "Dynamite comes in small packages."

Christenson Hits the Turf!

Rogyers is seen stonped agan in the game with the Tigers, Octoher 25, at Hart Field. Making the tackle is Elh, Puckett (16) with a locked hold on Boh Christenson. Showing up in the action shot are: Earl Keaton (22), Ned Scott (43), David Cunningham (41), Boh Sanders (37), and Bud Bennett (4).

Puckett, Frey Brown

Elb Puckett (left) was one of the mainstays in the Tiger backfield for his fine blocking and defensive work. Only a jumor, Eth will get a chance further to prove himself next year.
Coach Art Frey (center) did a lot of good work for the Bengal eleven this season huilding a strong line and actung as B team coach. "Art" was also husy turning out a winning cross country team and acting as track instructor. Inck Brown (right), speedy half hack, was considered by many as one of the finest hacks in the city for his hard driving end runs and strong defensive play. Chosen on the All-City second team, Dick has another hig year coming up.

Witter, Anderson, Cunningham

Stan Witter (left), hard fighting center, played as acting captain throughout the year, and was voted to this position by the players at the season's end. Stan was also selected as center on the All-City second team.
Tom Anderson (center), did his part as signal caller and fullback for the Tigers and was picked by the Chronicle sports staff for the All-City first team.
Dave Cunningham (right), 200 -pound guard, can plug up the line and run as well. Dave will be an asset on the Bengal cleven next year

Comin' Through ! ! !

Another action shot of the L.C. Rogers game, October 25, at Hart. The preture shows Bud Rofler (35) tot in' the ball in a reverse play around left end, while Earl Keaton (22) blocks out interference. Other Lewis and Clark Tigers predom. nate are: Bud Bennett (4) and Stan Witter (in center with stripe on helmet).

Football in the Snow

About six inches of snow had to he cleared from the gridiron before Lewis and Clark could play North Central in the Shrine game held November 10. Score was 0 to 0 . Those of the Tiger eleven showing up are: Bud Roffler, Rich LeDuc (34), Stan Witter, Elb Puckett (16), and Earl Keaton (22).

LeDuc, Keaton, Lipp

"Rich" LeDuc (left), 185 pound returning letterman and a boy to watch, was unanimously given the end position on the All.City team. "Rich" is known for his hard defensive plays and his "sticky fingers" when on offense. Opponents of the Tigers have still another year to watch out for "the Duke" in action. Earl Keaton (center), strong defensive player and a top pass receiver, saw considerable action on one of the end spots on the Bengal eleven. Earl was a returning letterman from last year.
John Lipp (right), alternating end and a two-year letterman, would have held a first string berth on the Tiger eleven but was in competition with two of the city's best wingmen.

Graham Gets Grabbed!!!

Bad weather slowed action and left the stands well nigh empty at the Annual Sbrine game held November 10 bet ween Lewis and Clark and North Central. Bull Graham of N.C. is shown being downed by Tom Anderson and Elb Puckett. Bounding an on the play is Bud Pemett ( $t$ ) with Al Cummins on his tail. Between them is Bud Roffler, vietim of the slushed up grid.

Frosh Football

The "Kittens" came through a sedson of five games with victories over Central Valley and West Valley, losing to North Central, Rogers, and Gonzaga.

1945 Boys' Golf Team

Playing against an experienced North Central six that included the Washington state junior champion, and others capahle of playing sub-par golf, the Tiger golfers dropped all four of their matches during the spring season of 1945. Scores for the matches are as follows: N.C. 11, L.C. 3; N.C. 11, L.C. 6; N.C. 15, L.C. 2; N.C. 13, L.C. 4. Because there was only one graduating letterman and several up and coming sophomores on the team, prospects for this year s season look much hetter.

This early class of ' 46 does hereby pass to you
Their only will and testament as they bid sad adieu
To Lewis and Clark. So cherish it, for it is all they give,
(It is all they have to give) to who at L.C. live.
Scrawled in blood upon the vellum darkened with long age,
They're bequeathing this last will upon its weath ered page.
To Donny Knowles, the joyous weekends spent at Newman Lake,
Are given from Lee Angvire, just for Donny's sake! From Bruce Brady, John Survant gets all his judo art,
But only if his friend, dear John, does not tear him apart!
Carol Bray is offering each strand of her straight hair
To Rose Minell, who ne'er has any curling trouble there!
Corraine Barton is lucky for she gets a useful gift,
Pauline Caudill's whistle she can use to "get a lift!"
The kick of writing and reading his own work, from Willis Clark,
Will go to Richard Prince, who we know has lots of spark!
Margaret Cook is giving her work on the Tiger staff
To Mort Millman who should get some worries and a laff!
Eleanor Strawick, you will get commercials and hand writing
From Evelyn Cowan who thinks that it will all be quite delighting!
Lillian Davis bequeaths her office in the Manoo club
To lucky little Joan Bree, the gal who needs no rub!
Position as stage manager, from Leonard Downing, fine;
He's giving it to the poor guy who's waiting next in line!
And Margaret Eng, with all her charms, does offer her stripes three
In tennis to winner Adeline Danke; powerful is she!
Dagwood sandwiches are Lottie Feld's outstanding like;
She wills 'em now to anyone; perhaps his name is Mike!
Patsy Lu Gneva, with pretty eyes and all,
Gives 220A to those "poor" guys in the study hall!
The friendly smile of Helen Grbich really is worth while;
She wills it to the one who thinks that it is hard to smile!
And Mary Gundlach says that she will give to Patty Wright
Her art of twirling, for she makes a pretty little sight!
From Betty Hanneman, the students get her friendly ways
And sparkle, for she's got enough to give and much that "stays!"

Janet Hart is willing something that is really wacky, For to Mr. Teakle she will give her sister Jackie!
To all the morons at L.C., whose classes take more than a year,
Robert Webster Hibbitt gives his six-year course spent here!
Ray Rosenau's a lucky lad for he gets from our Roy
His many varied interests; can you use them, Sonny Boy??
From Daren Johnson some will get his knowledge of Trade School fair,
For it goes to all the wolves who hang around near there!
You girls are willed a gift, which we know you all must need,
Sweet nothings from Roger Johnson; many call him "Swede!"
Twirling art once more is offered from a majorette:
From Valorie Johnson to Loss Pearson, and not on a bet!
The "Feathered" chickens he will raise, our man Earl Keaton
Will testify that they are for the guy who's always eatin"!
To Patsy Noel goes the telephone at Cabin 2
From Marian Kohn, who's used the thing till it is far from new!
Eileen Kruegel wills her art to survive Teakle’s hikes
To all the boys who thumb a ride or bring along their bikes!
His love for women's turned to hate, so Bill Lawson will Offer it to Heagle; his first name's also Bill
Urgel Leganle now leaves his french horn chair to Douglas Sly;
Also goes his band stand: Doug, you'll need it by and by !
Marilyn Leonard's a beautious gal, who wills all her love lives
To Janice Hendricks, redhead chick, whose wit is sharp as knives.
Punky Benningson, we think that you're the guy who gets
Jack Marden's taxi service, with all its smiles and frets!
To Wayne, the fire and spirit in the coming years. now goes:
Hey, Chandler! thank our Nathan Marks, the guy who's never "froze."
His lustrous, waved, "palmolived" hair is handed up to Tom;
Mr. Teakle, Earl Marsh leaves his "atomic bomb!"
Donna Mason's work for Perring, this she'd like to give
To Gerry Bennett who likes to be teased, and hopes that she will live!
Our president, Dave Masterson, has willed his curly hair;

We, the so-called students of the June class, 1946, hoping to rid ourselves of a few stray items, do now gladly and generously submit this, our last will and testament. Consult your lawyer in case of breaches of promise or sudden deaths resulting from it.

Any reference to real people or actual places, by the way, is purely intentional.

Joan Bree wills her ability to go steady for two years to Janet Oakley. Sam Riggs bequeaths his beaituful contralto "voice" to Ben Cummins. Fay Fry's ticket selling talent is left to Joanne Shelton. Peggy Hirvas leaves her history book to some unsuspecting senior $B$.

Donnelly Smith bestows his aptitude for math on Charles Senge. Pauline Danielson's talent for skiing goes to Patsy Noel. JoAnn Matson is willed Mary Jane Anderson's ability to be late to classes. Her extra locker space, Phyllis Johnson leaves for Evelyn Featherman and Mercedes Mmiclier. Paul Boothe hands over his Adelante vice presidency to anyone "unlucky enough to get clected." Two and a half years of steady life is bequeathed to Shirley McBride by Gloria Fish. Ivan Shay wills his ability for turning on fire hydrants to Anna Papantone.

Cecil True passes on Bob Goldstein's gym locker to Harold Parry. Carol Anderson falls heir to Pat Janzen's artistic talent. Jean Sweet's job in the Ti-Girl jacket room goes to someone who imagines she has the energy and stamina. John Warn donates his ability to get the family car and makc his folks take a taxi to Roger Daniel. DeVerne Taylor inherits Guy Perham's wavy brunette hair. Bob Perry's dancing ability goes to Dallas Duell. Janice Bailey passes on the Gonzaga boys to Jody Powers. Maxine Toreson's gym days with Carol Gleason are willed to her sister, Joyce. All the fun Marcia Gusman has had at con practice is left to Sue Ann Gerstenberger.

Roger Stilson leaves his ability to keep out of trouble to Bill Wakefield. To the last of the

Prophecy for the January Class of 1946

Good evening, ladies and gentlemen; this is Gordon Winston speaking to you from the sidewalk in front of the famous Reely Siamese Theater in San Francisco. A great throng is here to witness the world premier of the picture everyone has been waiting for, "Dr. Teakle and Mr. Hyde, The Inside Story of the Lives and Loves of Thomas Teakle." As I stand watching the festive crowds of movie enthusiasts, I catch the color and glamour of this long awaited night, January 21, 1956.

Well, look who is here! Leon Anguire, the multimillionaire playboy just back from a vacation trip to Newman Lake, Wash., where he financed the work of Professor Bruce Allen Brady, who is carrying out a very scientific experiment on the preservation of bodies in alcohol. And with Mr. Angvire is Robert Hibbitt and James Lawrence Pence, who were in charge of the still from which Mr. Brady's embalming fluid was obtained. Mr. Brady is, at the moment, in Washington - "embalmed!"

Looking very beautiful as she enters the theater is none other than the feminine star of the picture, Miss Jacqueline Taylor, escorted by David Masterson, the Pop Corn King and tycoon head of the Masterson Pop Corn Stand. I will see if I can get Miss Taylor to the microphone for a few words. Miss Taylor, I suppose you're really anxious to see the premier. "I probably won't see much of the picture, Mr. Winston, seeing as I am with Mr. Masterson!" Well, thank you, Miss Jacqueline Taylor, and look who we have right here coming up beside me the famous dress designer for "Eighteen" magazine, Cordelia Weaver, undoubtedly wearing one of her own creations and looking very charning in it.

Just driving up in his twenty-one cylinder Cadillcac is the President of the United States himself and his stunning wife. The crowd stands at attention as the band plays the traditional "Hail to the Chief." The President and Mrs. Holmhund, the former Joanne Stenstrom, are now entering the theater, and following their automobile is a long black sedan; let's see who steps out. It's hard to tell; their hats are pulled down over their eyes and their coats are pulled up to conceal their faces. As they come into the light, I can vaguely distinguish the mysterious characters to be Tampourlos Bogart, Humphrey Moen, and-Boris Runkel. But also stepping from the car are their beauteous "Molls," Lillian Davis Goddard, Hedy LaKohn and Veronica Leonard of the cinema!
And here coming up to the entrance are several delegates from the World Security Council; I can see Dennis T. Yasuhara of the Swedish Embassy and his attractive colleagues, Margaret Eng and Grace Minata. With them are the royal family from Balik Papan, Miss Valorie and the Masters Daren and Roger Johnson, accompanied by Water Commissioner Mayberry of San Francisco and Roberto Emmanuello Rosebalita Que.on Isical Saty, the exiled puppet premier of Nicaragua. I wish every. one could see all this royalty! Now here is Ray "Birdie" Tveden, owner and manager of the Brown Beanie night club, with several of his shapely samba sirens, Patsy Lu Gneva, Helen Grbich, Mary Gundlach, Pauline Caudill, Esther and Gloria Numn, Carol Bray, Joy Sprouse and Erlene Thomas. Following them is Willis Clark, better known as the "Whistler," whistling!
I have just noticed the large truck of the Wester and Prentice Plumbing Corporation parked across the street. These two have taken on the irrigation of the Sahara Desert as an extra project and are providing the ice for tonight's intermission act of Miss Beverly Sabin, the renowned Olympic figure skater, who is now making her way through the crowd with Company B of the 101 Regiment of the United States Marine Corps. Taking her arm is Urgel Legault playing the french horn for the famous outfit, accompanied by Elvin Shaw on the sweet potato. If only all of you in the radio audience could be here to see this spectacle of the greatest personalities in the country! The most magnificent congregation of fame is here tonight to do homage to Thomas Teakle in his hour of this new triumph. If I am not mistaken, I believe I see certain women prominent in the field of education-Dr. Elizabeth Hanneman, Lottie Feld and Janetenoff Hart of Vassar, and Professor Evelyn Cowan from Wellesley. And standing out in the crowd are the familiar faces of Donna Jean Mason, Chicago Tribune, and Robert Radwick of the New York Times, who are rivals for the Pulitzer prize to be awarded to the most outstanding gossip columnist of the year.
I have never seen so many famous people in one gathering before in all my life. For instance, standing directly in front of me is James McEvers. Mr. McEvers is responsible for the mortalizing of Mercer's immortal "Mairzy Doats!" Wait a moment; someone has just handed me a message. It says that the arrival of Mr. Teakle is expected at any time. The crowd is hushed, expectant! I will try to work my way around to the door through which Mr. Teakle will enter. There is no telling how long now. But there is a sudden burst of enthusiasm! He has arrived and is being surrounded by bobby-sox autograph seekers! Mr. Teakle is breathlessly pushing his way through the entrance accompanied by three young men who joined him in a three-hour battle through the brush up the Matterhorn. These four seem to have been the only survivors of the expedition they have just completed and are still dressed in hiking togs. Teakle's three companions are the famous explorers Admiral Jack Marden, Bring-Back Pitts Alive excuse me, that should be Bring'Em-Back-Alive Pitts, and Pink Blood-and-Guts

Prophecy for the June Class of 1946

The Busy Line Telephone Company on the third floor of the Tinga-Ling Building in the city of Metropolis, U.S.A., was a veritable beehive of activity.

As Maizie Lackawit entered jauntily to take over her noon shift she cried, "Greetin's! Have you heard the latest? Gib Doran, that handsome street car conductor took me out last night, and we saw the most gruesome murder. Mrs. District Attorney, Shirley Werner, was right there to get the murderer, though, and Jean "Arden" Buckingham was on the scene, too."

With the appearance of a light at her switchboard Maizie turned to her work. George Shields, the prominent Metropolis stock broker, was putting in his weekly call to Shirley Sweney, the eminent pianist on concert tour.
Prevented fron eavesdropping by a local call, from Ernest "Windy" Anderson, the heavy weight champion of the world, to his manager, "Muscles" Dodds, Maizie turned to gossip with the girl on her right, Dizzy Dunfunny.
"You know, Dizzy," she silid, "I dreamt about the good old senior prom last night. Remember the girl Stan Witter took? He's one of the Brooklyn Dodgers now. Still dodging, I suppose. And re, member Roger Stilson? Heard he's president of Medical Lake Institute.
"Really," exclaimed Dizzy. "Our general cleaning lady, Shirley Johnson, was there ,too, and Georgeanna Judd, her old pal, they say, is instructoress at the Ultra Old-Fashioned Dancing Academy."

Maizie interrupted her with a "Number Pleenz" and a "No, I'm sorry, Joan Bree's line is busy." Then she turned to Dizzy saying, "Dan Rumpeltes, the big oil magnate, is calling her all the time she's not on duty driving her taxi for the Holtzclaw Cab Co. Cecil True is another one who is always burning up these lines. I get so tired of their calls, especially since I was out at Hargle’s Night Club last night with my steady, Don Foulkes. Don is one of the executives out there now; and guess who we saw - Bill Lyall, the famous painter of Petty Girls, and Janice Bailey, dress designer for Vogue, and that head waiter, Rusty Irish.
"No!" Dizzy exclained. "Say, does Harry James McCord still play the trumpet out there?"
"Yaa," and Barbara Top is still accompanying him. Ray Rosenau is the club's Frank Sinatra yet, too, but what's really good is the chorus line Betty Franklin, Mary Jane Anderson, Lorene Collard, Gloria Amling, and Ramona Richards."
"Bet it's nothing like the ballet number at Mac Jacobson's Post St. Theatre," Maizie said. "Bill Leigh, Art Swanson, Bruce Parsons, Guy Perham, and Roger Lasswell are super. That ballad singer and guitarist, Bill Rusk, is really giving some swell renditions of cowboy songs out there, too, now."
"I've heard him," said Dizzy, "but that weightlifting man, Fay Conroy, is what amazes me, and the lion-trainer, Dot Smith.
"Number plee-uz," Maizie said again. "Sorry, Ray Huff's Hair Styling and Dyeing Salon's line is busy."
"Now as I was saying, Maizre," Dizzy continued. "did you hear about the beauty contest they had at the Post St. last week? June Anderson was voted Miss Metropolis of 1956, and the runners-up were Peggy Hirvas, Dorothy Huston, Edith Smith, and Harriet Anthony. The judges - Myron Benning son, Roger Hanke, and Gordon Manser - were fas ${ }^{-}$ cinating as well as fascinated. That cute majorette, Jean Hattrick, led the parade outside the theatre after the contest, by the way."
"Chicago calling," came in suddenly on Maizie's lines. "Mr. Bob Perry is calling from the Perry Toothpick Factory, where he is engaged in the business of putting points on toothpicks. Yes, this is his secretary, Fay Fry, speaking.
"Interruptions, interruptions," said Maizie, "and speaking of interruptions, have you been listening to that Burpo Pop Company's spot commercial? It's sung by Janice Montague, and it really sends me!"
"Oh, she"s okay," conceded Dizzy, "but I like Marcia "Katy" Gusman hetter. What a vorce! And that violinst on her program, Victor Sands, he's out of this hemisphere!"
"So was that dress described on Hedda Hahn's "Hints on Hollywood Habiliments,' " Maizie added. "She said that the Metropolitan Opera star, Jean Wegner, wore it in her latest picture in which she was accompanied by Marian Cordes. Barbara Hartin got her award for being the best dressed woman of the year, didn't she?"

Yaa, and Elizabeth Lindsay, that one-finger virtuoso of the piano got second."
"Oh, I saw her photograph in a magazine the other day," said Maizie. Dick Prince, the first man to climb Mt. Everest in a bathing suit, had his picture on the opposite page."

That was the magazine that had that terribly dry article by the professor of history at Harvard. Dick Matthieson, wasn't it?" Dizzy asked. "These profs and school teachers like Gordon Brandt, Ellen Hagen, Phyllis MacPherson, and Professor 'Moldy' Molander can write the most 'incompreheardable' things.

What about those eJitorials in the Chronicle, written by Mary Lou Vent, and those scientific columns of Dorothy Kiuffman and Dick 'Einstein King? Whew!"
"Ditto," agreed Dizzy, "but I skip the reading even Kitty Jacobson's column of advice to the lovelorn. Just the pictures for me! There were neat ones of those two actresses, Nancy Joy and Eloise

Will of the January Class of 1946

[Contmused from page 113]

The favored guy is Lewis Strong; it we hope you'll wear!
Freedom, what so few now have, will go to Ivan Shay
From Willam Albert Mayberry, who likes the water way!
Dave Coburn is eier bequeathed a very useful thing,
Jim McEver's part as soloist, for he call sing!
Her love for riding motor boats is willed by pretty Grace
To all the future sailors, for that is their true place! Morrie Moen seems to have a wild love for girls;
This love he hands to all the guys who take their mighty whirls!
Their sisterly love is now bequeathed by Esther and Gloria Nunn
To Loris and Doris Fogelquist, whose love is neer underdone!
Bill Lyall benefits from his good friend, James Lawrence Pence,
The right to stay in school as long as he wants (without a fence!)
Bill Pitts is such a mighty lad, that he chose to will
His heavy whiskers to Ben Cummins, each hair like a quill!
Dorothy Pope, the I.Q. tests she gives for Miss Bungay,
She leaves to one who wants to be a school teacher some day!
A love for men and steady life goes from a gal named Joy;
Prentice, you leave to Marilyn Richter, battles with some boy!
Bob Radwick says that he has scholarly traits, and gives to Garr
These scholarly traits; but, Wentworth, these you must not marr!
Willy Randall wants to leave to Principal A. L. Parker
Lewis and Clark, the school that houses every Lewis and Clarker!
Dean Johnson, oh you lucky man, will get from Rodney Runkle,
The art of writing love letters, for Rod's got a carbuncle! (We had to make it rhyme!)
From Dorothy Ryker, who can catch the bus home every night,
Elaine Martin gets this art, who never makesitquite!
Beverly Sabin says, "I wish to offer my eye tooth
To anyone who needs the thing," to tell the very truth!
Robert Charles Saty, his hot trumpet now will go To dashing Bill McCord, because he needs it so!
The nickname "Bud" is very cute, and now by Ehin Shaw
It's left to any common guy, for it is in our law!
Joy Sprouse has had some very happy years of steady life,

And now they go to Barbara Top, who"ll make B1ll one sweet wife!
And even innocence we have to offer from this class,
From Jody Stenstrom to Kay Cunningham it does now pass!
Jim Tampourlos's golfing score is near the hundred mark;
He now leaves it to anyone who's got that much "spark!"
George Taylor says he offers nothing in his parting days;
Why don't you will a luscious cake to all the senior A's?
Head majorette is left by Jackie Taylor, pretty lass,
To Ginny Angerer, for we're all sure she's going to pass!
Erlene Thomas seems to get from life a lot of bangs;
But real ones she gives to Donna White, whose hair nèer hangs!
"T reden" is an odd name, and Ray now seems to think
That it should go to one who has a common name on the brink!
This is now what we believe Cordelia Weaver's wish,
To will her seat in Orcutt's class to nifty Gloria Fish!
Gladys Wester sure does like to have a lot of fun;
The fun now goes to Nancy Waller; she's the lucky one!
And we find that Paul Wilcox, another Trade School boy,
Does pass his last year's physics book to Guy Perham with joy!
Our pal "Red" Winston is the guy, who we know really "slaves!"
He wills his Margie Dillard to a "wolfing" Mr. Toers!
Denny Yasuhara has a mustache for a "greenie;" (frosh)
It's been quite becoming, but now it is quite "leanie!" (Whew!)
The curly hair of Sam Zarkin we've never seen go wild;
He wills it now to Tommy Stenstrom, bleak and black and mild!
To Pauline Danielson we'll give the art ability
Of Claire Zimmerman, who really draws, we mean really!
But to each and everyone of you we all want to will All the wonders of senior life with each tear and thrill!
We've had a super time; wère sure to miss it, too,
And so to close this testament, we 'll bid our sad adieu! ! !

Elleen Krubgel, Bill Lawson.

Marsh. Mr. Teakle, come right over here and tell the crowd what you think of the grand reception they have given you. Surely you must have something to say about all this fabulous array for your famous picture. Come on, let him through, give him air. You must be awfully tired. What do you think of your world premier, Tom? "Gordon, you're a fine boy, but you're still a little lazy!" Thank you, Mr. Teakle, and there he goes, folks, into the theater.

But quickly sneaking up behind the little party is beautiful Margaret Cook, who has just been chosen by the Mechanics Union as Miss Monkey Wrench of 1956 . She's exceptionally ravishing to night sporting a lovely sable coat and a certain tall, blonde gentleman wearing a discharge button. Well, for heaven sake! here comes Earl Throck. morton P. Keaton, the brushless, creamless, shaveless sports caster, and now I see coming into the limelight Miss Claire Zimmerman. She is the behind the-scenes artist for Walt Disney Studios and tonight is escorted by Disney's model for Bugs Bunny, Leonard Downing, with a carrot in his mouth. The gaiety and laughter is superb, the evening is marvelous, and all decked out for the occasion are the Misses Dorothy Pope and Dorothy Ryker, known more commonly as the "Two Dots of Voice and Piano." They are identicilly dressed in royal blue gowns trimmed in purple fringe; very unique! There goes All-American Nathan Marks with a football and very pretty Mrs. Marks on either arm, and following them is the baker of those luscious French pastries, Mr. Taylor, proprietor of "George's," just across the street from the Wilcox Randall Perfumery, originators of "Evening in Skunk Hollow!

I had hoped to sce Charles Zarkinsky Boyer here tonight, but he is being delayed in the Casloh! It seems he has run actoss the remains of two presumably human beings, among millions of scraps of yellowed, aged paper, mildewed chocolates, and fragments of stale chewing gum. Mr. Boyer sent me this manuscript he discovered with some important documents proving the bodies belonged to the authors, who early in 1946 went to Algiers to write this class prophecy. It was their last wish that it be published in the 1946 Lewis and Clark ammal, so here it is and have fun realing it! !!

Beil, who just got back from touring in China with their theatrical company. H. Winfield Stevens, the famous Shakesperian actor, was with them. One of the members of the company just died a few days ago, didn't he?"
"Uh-huh," answered Maizie. "He was taken to Shirley Teft"s funeral home where Lucille Bowers is embalmer, Peggy Herger is undertaker, and -- Dizzy's "Number plee-uz," interrupted Maizie. "Donald Baird's glue factory? No, I'm sorry, that line is busy." Turning to Maizie, she said, "Honestly, all these new factories that have gone up are really busy! Paul Boothe, the Under President of the Jr. Chamber of Commeree, has just set up the Nut Factory that's where Wurth Coble is work ing, by the way - John Johnston, the manager of the local General Motors plant is always calling New York; the hair pin company's janitor, Gregg Miller, has a headache from watching so many pins; and Dorothy Ruchl is still extracting cat's eyes for the tapioca factory.

"A tapioca factory," exclaimed Maizie, "that reminds me, I'm hungry. Let's go to Carberry's Chop Suey Restaurant. I saw Dorothy Morgan, the Y.W.C.A. residence director, there the other day.
"No," Dizzy objected, "I'd rather go to Shirley A. Johnson's Ice Cream Parlor. Jean Sweet is the soda jerker there now, and I haven't seen her in positively ages."
"Okay," agreed Maizie. "We can sce Evelyn Snow, the elevator girl, on the way down, and let's stop by Bob Well's fortune-telling place on the way back."

After a look at her switchboard, Maizie turned to her work and said, "Just a moment please, I'll connect you with Gloria Johnson's Interior Decorating Shop. Yes, Pat Janzen and Nellie Harris still work there, but Miss Dillard and Carol Trappe have taken positions at the Commercial Art Co. in Chicago.

Glancing up, Maizie exclaimed, "Well, look who's coming in -if it isn't the sophisticated col lector of domestic salvage (garbage collector to you), Phil Wolfe and his assistant, Frank Barringer. All they ever talk about is sports and more sports. You'd think they'd know I've learned by this time that Robert L. Sills is first string centerfield for W. S. C., that Donnelly Smith is first string right field for the New York Yankees, that Dan Schoedel made the Green Bay Paddlers' team, that Bob Olsen was voted the most outstanding baseball player of 1956, that Jeanne Juniper broke the track record with her not-a Crosby horse, and that Pauline Danielson won the national women's ski championship this year."

"Yaa, wouldn't you," agreed Dizzy. "Well, they won't be bothering us for a little while today "cause they just picked up that newspaper we bought from Claire Bartlett outside the Davenport Hotel. "Vonzaa Stoker writes the Great American Poem" are the headlines. Let's see now, was that the one whose heroine was Betty McCutchen, the quiet, sedate minister's wife, or was it the one about the famous philanthropist Janet Ellingwood?"
"I'm sure I don't know," Maizie answered, "but I do know the names of those models whose pictures are on the front page. They're Gloria Fish and Mary Hyland.
"Right," said Dizzy, "and I'm so envious of them. Maybe wed better stay here instead of going out to get something with a lot of calories in it. I'd probably stop in at Morton Millman's jewelry shop and upset my budget anyway."
'Course we could see Rodney Pullen, the street cleaner, and maybe Ivan Shay, who is assistant to the water commissioner, Bill Mayberry," Maizie objected. "But on second thought, Vaughn Keller and Bruce Cochran, the Fuller Brush salesmen, just might stop in while we're gone, so I guess we'd better stay."
"And so," said Maizic, "and so," said Dizzy, "we'll have some more fun reminiscing about our swell Class of $1946!"$

Dedication to Heroes

by Bll Clark

The light was slow in coming over the desert that morning. It was a long time until the two men, waiting behind the grey stone wall, noticed the preliminary streaks of impending sunlight creeping over the sagebrush in the empty field before them. Their faces were distinguishable to those below them in the courtyard of the old building by the faint red glow of the cigarettes dangling from their lips. As members of the security watch, the two found the present period of activity a rather tense business.
"That outfit out there has a reputation for making a fuss around daybreak, don't they, Dive? Don't suppose it'll be too long before we 'll have somethin’ to do," said the younger man, in answer to his own question.
"Take er easy, while you can, Jimmy boy, they're not agonna come afore they get good and ready," rejoined his companion. "Think of somethin' else, like food, like we ain't had, rest, like we ain't had . . pleasant stuff . . like that." The speaker rumpled his long black hair, and shifted his position to a more comfortable one, a corner of the wall. His back was cushioned against a snoring fellow-soldier, who was too tired to notice the difference.
He stared so long at one spot ahead of him; Jim sat up in alarm.
"What's the matter, see somethin??"
"Now don't get anxious, kid, I was just thinkin'.."
"Well, don't think so long, it makes me jumpy," his friend said wryly. "What's so important to occupy your mind so long?"
"I was just considerin" the temperament o their Gen'rul. Now, you'd think hed find a better way to get rid o' his soldiers than to send 'em straight acrost the field out there and let us have rifle practice on "em. Now, if I was doin" it . . . no, wait, I wouldn't want to do that to my own men, not even Lieutenant Reed, that pompous young peacock!
Well, there's Gen'ruls and Gen'ruls, but I'm glad we got one that knows what he's a-doin!"
This last long piece of oratory being too lengthy for the plainsman to handle comfortahly, he sank back and let his tan ficld cap fall over his eyes. Dave was alert, though relaxed, and occasionally pushed up the brim of his cap to flick a pair of steel-blue eyes over the now clear ground before them. Those eycs were the mystifying part of Dave, for the rest of him was plain enough. Calloused hands, straight, almost homely face and unruly hair, all could have been the description of any of the men around him. He wasn't particularly tall, nor short . . . just average. But though no insignia of rank was on his uniform, the spirit which lay behind those eyes of his communicated itself to his companions in time of battle as clearly as a shout . . . "Follow Me."

After at time he contmued . . . his speaking directed to himself as much as anyone else. "Almost everybody can see "em comin’ . . . wars, I mean but does anyone . . . anyone important do anything about it? No sir! It's always up to us fellars to finish out the argument . . . too bad, though about the part where too many little fellars gets hurt . . You know, if I had my way, I'd let all the folks who had a concern in the trouble get out and put on a hell-fur-leather scrap until they got 'er all straightened out. 'Trouble is . . . nobody wants to abide by the decision . . and then we start all over again.

Young Jmu cast ann admuring glance across the rampart it the speaker. He knew Dive was the best soldier in the whole army and could drop a man with one shot from his rifle, when he had apparently taken no aim at all. And where he had picked up his ability to play the battered fiddle he carried in his duffle bag, the men never knew . . . but they enjoyed hearing it . . . and knew that Dave cherished it . . . so they never questioned him about it.

Rising to his feet Jim called . . . "Reville, you pack-mules, rise and shine . . Day . . . Break."

One be-whiskered sleeper stirred himself, threw aside his blankets. "Paugh! What a rotten taste for a man to have in his mouth in the morning Why don't we ever have any better chow than jerked mule and beans!"
"I've seen a jackass look better than you do now, Wordsly!" laughed Dave from the wall. Sheepishly, Wordsly turned to gather materials for a fire to take off the chill of the morning air.
It was as the men were settling down to breakfast rations when the whipcrack broke the morning air. The bullet would have gone more or less unnoticed, were it not for the yell of seemingly mortal pain from the corner of the watch tower. Dave had heard the tinkle of breaking glass when the slug sang past his head and thudded into his bedroll. He didn't even have to feel inside to know that his last bottle of 90-proof Texas rotgut was oozing slowly through his rolled blankets to evaporate into unenjoyed nothingness.

When the men realized that it was whiskey, not their comrade, that had stopped the bullet, there were a few short laughs, until the roar of "Quiet" came from the wall. The plainsman was mad enough over his loss to shoot anyone at the drop of a hat, and all were aware of it.

Breakfast forgotten, the men climbed to their stations to await the expected morning attack. The ammunition orderly passed from man to man, issuing an equal number of rounds to each from the company's dwindling supply.

The outfit being predominantly southern, the slow, characteristic drawl was heard almost every time a man spoke.

One young soldier grunted wearily as he eased himself and his rifle into a reasonably comfortable position on the crumbling stone, and observed, "My, my, effen my daddy could see me now. Imagine, me hirin' out foah a soljuh when he wanted me to be a docter . . . All dressed up in a nice white coat. ${ }^{\prime \prime}$
"You're gonna get your white robe all right, Smitty," the one addressed answered. "An" a pair of wings an" a nice gold harp to match. Just as soon as you poke your head over this y here wall."
"Hush that stuff, Alabama, we got a long way to go until we're through, yet, ann I don't want to hear any of that quitter's talk!" Jim interrupted harshly, as he passed on his way to his position.
"Easy, easy, we didn"t mean nothin" by it . . . just joshin', Jim, that's all."
Jim growled out a compromising "Sorry" and joined Dave at the tower. Jim was younger than his friend, and more nervous at the business of being a fighting man. He was no quitter, though, and had once taken on a man from across the field hand-to-hand . . a hard way for any youngster to kill a man. It was a fight with knives, and the other man was stronger and better at the business. A gash four inches long was bound up on Jim's arm, received when he parried the rush of the enemics: attempt to gain the wall, but his knife had a notch in the handle.

Enemy activity was seen out of small-arms range, but the Americans remained silently watchful, until Jim ventured, "What's chances on our bein' reinforced, Dave?" All eyes turned to Dave as the query was passed.

Silently engaged in loading his sharpshooter's piece, he took a while before answering. "Well, as I see it, we re still pretty well off. We'rc eatin', if you want to call it that, and we' ve done our job in keeping them out . . "We're all gettin" paid pretty good for the amount of work we're a-doin'. Trouble is, you young fellars don't hardly know when you're well off."

Said with utmost sagacity, nevertheless the speech prompted scveral comments of, "Same old Dave.". .. "I think he likes it here."
"They're a-comin"," said Smitty quietly.
"Stand ready" . . . the captain's order came.
"Ammunition orderly," the call went up "Damn you, corporal, I said fifty rounds to each man. "The young captain was a little jumpy. He hadn't been a commander long; just since yesterday when the Colonel took a bullet in the chest. He lay in a corner of the churchyard, covered with a tarpaulin along with the other dusty little sacks of clothes that had once meant a soldier. With the enemy so close, no man considered it wise or heroic to attempt to bury them.
"Not yet, Jimmy; hold your fire until they get in a little farther," Dave hissed as his young friend was tightening on the trigger.
"Lordy, lordy, they's sure taken a long time to pay us a visit this time," Alabama interjected. The line of men seven hundred yards away seemed an unbroken sea of bluecoated troops. The men within the church drew in their breath and sighted along their rifle-barrels.

It was a man in the lead who got it first . . . a private in the ranks . . . a man whose dark complexioned face hardly twirked as the bullet from Dave's gun crashed through his cheek and into his brain.

The report of the gun was a surprise to the quiet morning . . . something that seemed to have no business there. The swift succession of sounds emanating from the grey stone building seemed to have more to do with the falling and dying of men in the field than the bullet they never saw nor heard.

American rifles barked out a death-rattle for many of those below the wall, but an occasional defender whirled away from his embrasure to clutch a head or chest wound with blood pouring between his fingers. And there were those who never heard their bullet-with anameon-it among them. The wooden gate of the ancient sanctuary was broken by the weight of many a blue coated body being thrown against it.

It was not long until the fighting vortex centered around a tiny room off the courtyard. A handful of the Americans remaining alive gathered there, back to back, waiting for the last expected rush of the enemy which now swarmed through the broken gate, and remained poised, waiting the final word from the enemy lieutenant who demanded that the Americans yield.

The answer reccived in the negative, there was a swirling, slashong final round, and then it was finished. The lanky, drawling Dave went down under an officer's sword while swinging his long empty rifle like a club, with deadly effectiveness.

The lives of 183 American men and a number of women were lost in that engagement. But they sold their lives dearly. Against an estimated force of over five thousand, these 183 held out until overwhelmed by vastly superior attacking forces. Perhaps it would have been better had the heroes died with a few famous last words on their lips, but they did not.
Instead, their noble defense and Spartan-like bravery inspired the men of their country to encounter and defeat the army of the enemy, with the slogan of "Remember the Alamo."

A Month Before "Discharge" By  Art Brandt

Let me see yes, it is four years ago today that I finds myself entering a great struggle, which indeed is turning into a fight for life or death. I am never thinking as I enter that this is gomg to be a hard time lecause everything is looking quite like peaches and cream; so I enters with lots of the old fight willing to do the best as I am able.

The first guy I meets seems to be the head guy, the gencral of the whole works, and he tells me just what my duties as a member of this unit is. I also finds out that there is three hundred others like myself who must also follow the same difficult path in order to gain in rank.

Well, the first year I am finding it very difficult indeed, what with learning such hard things as algebria, science, and English and what is making matters worse is the fact that the head guy and all the officers are keeping track of everything we do which is enough to make you worry more than somewhat, because no one wants to have a bad record, especially me.

So, with a great deal of difficulty I finally succeeds in getting through the first year, but this is by no means an easy task, especially for me, because I am not exactly what you would call a scholar. People are telling me what a difficult time I will be having m my future years, so I am very much afrard when I finds myself entering my second year.

What different people are telling me about the work getting more difficult as we are going along, I am finding to be truer than true. In my second year my officers are getting stricter and stricter and they are teaching me geometry, Spanish and history and I finds myself working more than quite a bit.

Along with all this very hard work I also finds tume for a little bit of fun, and so when I finds time I goes out on a date with a doll whose name I do not wish to relate at this instance. The next thing I knows is that I am being promoted into my third year and people are calling me a bigger boy and other such names although I am by no means what one would call a scholar. I am now told by my head officer that I must have thirty-two points to get out of this great struggle which I entered only two years ago. Thirty-two is a great many points indeed so in my third year I finds myself working more than a little at such hard things as chemistry, typing, and math which are by no means easy subjects, especially for me, because I am not exactly what one would call a scholar.

Well, I finds myself working very hard, and beating my head against the wall, and working my fingers to the bone, just to gain four more points which my officers tells me I must have, but inspite of my seemingly useless efforts I finds myself very near my goal with only one more year and eight points to go.

When I finally comes to the realization that I have already put three years away, I goes and enters my fourth and last year with lots of fight and determination knowing however that with such things as trigonometry, physics, and history on my schedule I will have anything but an easy time on my hands.

Well, I am working, and I am struggling, and I am putting every bit of energy forth in this last round of my big four-year fight. The officers are drilling me a great deal more than much, and I am beginning to get the feeling that they do not want me around, although I know this is not true.

When the day finally comes which I have been waiting for for these four long hard years, I finds myself not only feeling proud as a father who is just having quintuplets, but also I have that certain feeling that I am very smart indeed, although I am by no means what you would call a scholar.

Well, when the head officer hands me the piece of paper which entitles me to leave this institution, I am feeling very, very sad way down deep, and my throat feels like it is tied in a knot, and I cannot swallow, but I takes the diploma, and as I walks away I am almost bursting with pride, although a little tear is running down my face.

And when I finds myself standing on the corner, and a friend of mine asks me if I thinks it was worth

The First Hundred Years

ByVonzaa Stoker

The doors of opportunity were opened wide for me, The day I entered as a frosh into old L.C.
With confidence and courage high, I stepped with all due care
Across the friendly welcome mat, placed prominently there.
The moment I arrived inside the stately, spacious hall,
I heard a voice so gentle, and so clear emit the call:
"Hey, frosh" and then the voice relayed to someone standing near,
"Boy, that's the greenest one I've seen!" . . . I trembled then with fear,
Because that ever fateful day I wore, upon detection,
A bluc suit which I realized must clash with my complexion.
I looked around quite desparately for a place to run to;

But if there was a mouse hole, it was hidden well from view.
That I must register at once I was then informed;
I rushed into the office where frosh around me swarmed.
They said that I must answer a few qucstions, more or less;
(The more part was a vast understatement, I confess.)
Whercupon they handed $m c$, with quite a fiendish gleam,
Some questionnaires, and when I looked at them I thought I'd scream
There were not very many more than a hundred pages there,
But in my weakened state of mind I didn't really care.
As I was now surrounded, with no means of sweet salvation,
I began to answer questions, so full of anticipation:
"What's your name, your address, and your tele" phone right now?"
"Are you kind to pets and kids, and do you have a cow?"
"In your opinion is it true that L.S.M.F.T.?"
"If you had your choice of work what would you choose to bc?"
Four pencils and two pens I then finished with a sigh,

But my relief was short-lived for they told me then that I
Might choose what I desired to take in the coming year,
And after I had written all the things my heart held dear
To graduate they said some special subjects there would be
And with all these requirements there was one choice left for me.
I struggled from the office and the morning went quite fast,
And that very afternoon fame came to me at last;
As thousands crowded round me, and in unison did cry,
"Frosh!" the cafeteria's no place to drop some pie.
The days extended into weeks, the weeks to months and more,
I was losing now that green look that the frosh are noted for.
It was a long, hard struggle, and a senior I am now And well I know the frosh leads a dog's life, boy and how!
For I learned by hard experience, and tell you that I'm sure
Grateful just to realize a frosh I am no more,
But fate has its own irony and next year I will be Once again a frosh, there's no justice! . . . Do you agree???
